

I am strongly against opening up meta data for any additional purpose. While I can accept there is some need to provide law enforcement with data for serious cases, this in itself comes with a serious privacy cost. Any increase in scope will make the already gross violation of our privacy even worse and I am against this proposition.

Thanks and Regards,
Matthew