

Dear Sir/Madam,

It is absolutely absurd this is even being considered as it would be a huge breach of privacy.

Privacy is a right, and laws like these are slowly but surely eroding them. First, we gave up some privacy to "keep us safe and first terrorism", and now it is so that companies can sue us? This is straight up corporatism, we cannot allow this.

The EU just ruled that "general and indiscriminate retention of emails and electronic communications by governments is illegal". Taking this one step further and allowing this "illegal" data to be used by corporations to sue civilians is straight up insanity.

This must be stopped.

Thanks,
Maurice
