

This will severely degrade the effectiveness of law enforcement in terrorism and major crimes, paranoia of being wrongfully persecuted by corporations and litigious lawyers would proliferate the use of VPNs as a common internet tool... where the effectiveness for it to analyse and time-machine crimes mute especially in spontaneous crimes.

If the corporation/individual has just cause to persue meta-data, they should file criminal charges and let law enforcement access the meta-data... else this is in direct violation of the original intent of the law and the privacy of individuals.

Justin Harvey