

To Whom it may concern, this matter is a pretty easy one meta data collection access was only supposed to be given to authorities to prosecute people that are charged with violence & terrorism as laid down in the in upon the Committee's recommendations . There should be no altering of this legislation to allow companies governments or organisations access to this data unless for purposes as stated and for no other reason above. In this world of privacy is getting less and less we need our government to serve the people's interests not companies, both foreign & domestic

Regards

Michael Rogers